

Adventure outline by Psybertrack

It took place in New York City, but could easily have been Gotham City and or Metropolis. The 5 player characters were a varied assortment of medium to medium high level heroes who had just moved to the Big City.

They all wanted to join the city's #1 Super hero team: Daywatch but when they applied were told they were too inexperienced. Nevertheless the leader, GABRIELL, would continue to give advice, support and advice throughout the adventure. He is a super-strong winged hero, and suggested the new heroes form a team and supplied a warehouse for them to meet and live in as their headquarters (later he supplied us with a former police precinct in the ghetto which we modified to suit ourselves).

The new team was called METAFORCE (some of the team were meta-humans). Giant spiders had infested the Holland Tunnel and the team had to defeat them. Later we had to track the scientist who created them to an upstate NY farmhouse with giant wolves and heavily armed goons protecting a secret underground lab.

We rescued a mutant-spiderlad type fellow who called himself WEBCRAWLER and helped our team in his quest to find out his true origins. The trail led back to evil villainess, Queen Arraknei who was half woman, half spider. She was in the Empire State Building on an upper floor, with a dozen giant spiders with a particularly strong poisonous bite.

Later we found that while we were attacking her hundreds of flying spiders were invading New York's financial district.

DAYWATCH and NIGHTWATCH and various other heroes were helping to fight them off.

We staved off the invasion and defeated the Queen. But a clue was left linking her financing to Ares, a magical villain. Later we found out in Italy that Hercules, Damocles, Vulcan, and many other villains who called themselves after the Greek/Roman gods were all part of Ares gang.

Also they had about 40 troops called the "Glorious Legionnaires" who had magical flying armor, rocket lances, vibro-swords, healing rings , power belts, strength gloves, and electro-nets.

The gang was trying to steal a large blue sapphire from a museum(to use it in Ares spell to open a dimensional door permanently to a demon spawning plane). Later we fought off most of the villains, but Ares got away.

Our version of Metaforce was made of Roar (a Superboy/Catman hybrid), Raphaell Angel (a true angel), Metamorff a stretcher, Tiberias (an Iceman like hero), Azrhial(a pulp hero like Batman type with a neat sword and two powerful pistols) and The Detective(a super smart telepath). But you could use any heroes.

By the way Hercules used to carry around a bag with a medusa head to turn people to stone with.